

ENGLISH FOR MEDICAL ACADEMIC PURPOSES

SPECIALIST ONLINE ENGLISH COURSE

ENGLISH LEVEL: B2
Upper-intermediate

2ND
EDITION

This course enables medical professionals and students to engage internationally.

Writing articles, giving presentations, listening to lectures and reading research papers in English is increasingly important in the globalised world of healthcare.

SLC's online English for Medical Academic Purposes course gives you the language skills you need to study and work effectively with English language materials at a high level.

It provides the tools you need to write effectively, attend international conferences and events, and work with professionals and students from other countries.

“This course was really useful for me, as I got a lot of new knowledge, which will help me to communicate with my colleagues and prepare scientific works.”
Inga, medical student

“For me the order and rules of writing and registration of scientific articles and preparation of presentations were very useful.”
Inna, medical student

English is the lingua franca of international medicine and pharmacy. The vast majority of research is published in English. Most conferences are given in English.

Having a strong understanding of medical academic English, enables today's students to

- ✓ keep up with the latest research
- ✓ attend and speak at conferences
- ✓ write articles and reports in English
- ✓ study and practice overseas
- ✓ participate in international projects
- ✓ network effectively in a global healthcare environment
